Policy highlights

What is the definition of ‘drugs’?

The definition of ‘drugs’ for the purposes of this policy is any substance which, when taken, has the effect of altering the way a person behaves, feels, sees or thinks. Such substances can include:

- alcohol
- ‘over the counter medicines’
- prescribed drugs
- volatile substances such as glues and aerosols
- all drugs listed as illegal under the Misuse of Drugs Act 1971, including new psychoactive substances (NPS) previously referred to as ‘legal highs’ and any substances under a temporary class drug order.
- other substances which are illegal for human consumption within medicines legislation, this may include so-called dietary supplements (such as dinitrophenol (known as DNP)).

What do we mean by misuse?

The term 'substance misuse' relates to all illegal drugs; all legal drugs, including alcohol, tobacco, volatile substances; and all over-the-counter and prescription medicines.

As well as acknowledging the legal definition of misuse, the University's policy includes within the definition of 'misuse' as the habitual or intermittent use of alcohol or any drug or other substance which causes detriment to an individual's health, social functioning or study/work performance. It can often impair the safety of themselves or others and affect attendance, time keeping, efficiency or conduct.

Who is covered by the policy?

The policy applies to all students enrolled to study at UCA, including Further Education (FE), Higher Education (HE) and Post Graduate (PG), both taught and research students, and those on short courses.
